eminent engineers and sanitarians on the program for important addresses and with an assemblage of United States senators and representatives, governors and other state officials such as has never before graced such a gathering, the National Drainage congress will hold its fourth annual sessions at Savannah, Ga., April 22-25.

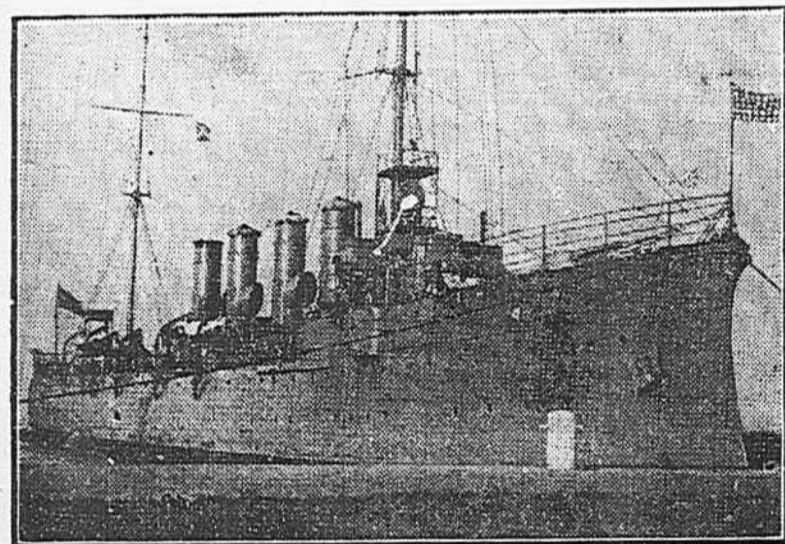

Several hundred delegates are expected, including many of the leading men of affairs of the south and west.

the most brilliantly illuminated in the country, will be given up to a masquerade carnival, with prizes for the most beautiful and most grotesque costumes worn by masqueraders. The night will be surrendered to general jollification a veritable Mardi Gras event without limitation to innocent fun.

The following day, Friday, April 23

ONE OF THE UNITED STATES SCOUT CRUISERS AT SAVANNAH
APRIL 20-25.

The south Atlantic states are expected to be especially strongly represented. Among world noted speakers from abroad is Sir William Willcocks, builder of the great Assouan dam in Egypt, who sailed from Cairo for this special purpose in March.

In appreciation of the importance of the congress to the material and health interests of the country the railroads have granted very low rates to Savannah from all points south of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers.

For their entertainment an attractive program has been prepared. Professional baseball will mark every day of the week, Savannah versus Columbia the first three and Savannah versus Charleston the last three days. The navy department has ordered an imposing array of war vessels to Savannah for the week, including cruisers, torpedo boats and torpedo boat destroyers. These will be open for public inspection every day, and an opportunity will be afforded to visitors to study life on these interesting fighting craft. The jacksies from the ships, the garrison from Fort Screven, with its famous military band; the local military, consisting of ten companies of infantry, two batteries of artillery and a company of cavalry, and other local organizations, will participate in a great military and civic demonstration on Thursday afternoon, April 23, in a sense escorting the floral parade at that time, which has been organized by Lachlan McIntosh chapter, D. A. R.

AUTOS IN SAVANNAH'S FLORAL AND MILITARY PARADE THURSDAY, APRIL 23.

There is no more delightful place on warm spring day than Tybee beach.

During the week there will be other features of the program of entertainment that will be a source of pleasure.

The rates on the railroads are good for ten days, not expiring until midnight on April 30. As the climate of Savannah at this period of the year is unsurpassed in the world for out of door enjoyment and Savannah, the south's "Forest City," is then most beautiful in its fresh dress of verdure, the expectations of a large attendance on the congress and of visitors in general are not apt to be disappointed.
